'I say' Seth ! said the storekeeper, coming in and closing the door after him, slapping his hand over his shoulders and stamping the snow off his feet. Seth had his hand on the door, his hat upon his head, and the roll of butter in his hat, anxious to make his exit as soon as possible. 'I say, Seth, sit down, I reckon, now, on such an e-tar-nal night as this, a leetle somethin' would'nt hurt a fellow.'

Seth felt very uncertain; he had the butter, and was exceedingly anxious to be off, but the temptation of something warm sadly interfered with his resolution to go. This hesitation, however, was soon settled by the right owner of the butter, taking Seth by the shoulder and planting him in a seat close to the stove, where
